

Amanda Cecil is an assistant professor in the Department of Tourism, Conventions and Event Management at Indiana University (Indianapolis, Indiana, USA). This is her fourth year of the faculty and her research interests include distance education, meeting and convention marketing, and tourism development topics. She was a convention and event planner for five year prior.