

"Meeting Planning as an Emerging Profession"

Amanda Cecil and Kristin Wood

This session will deliver information regarding the importance of professional development to meeting and event planners. Participants will discover how exposure to industry trends and networking can boost their credibility as a professional and advance the professionalism of the meetings industry. Association membership, certifications and designations, and certificate programs will be introduced for attendee consideration.