

Nikos Koumanis was born in Athens in 1977. Following his graduation from Collège du Lemman International School (Geneva) in 1995, he joined Centre International de Glion in Montreux (Switzerland) and was granted the Diploma in Hospitality & Tourism Management. In 2001 he was awarded the degree of Master in Science (MSc) in Tourism Management from the University of Surrey (UK).

Koumanis is working as Project Manager in xenia Exhibitions-Conferences S.A. where he is in charge of organizing conferences and conducting surveys. Also, he is the editor in 'xenia news', which is issued eight times per year (4 issues quarterly, and 4 during the operation of xenia International Tourism Industry Exhibition). Furthermore, he occasionally contributes to 'Exhibition World' (magazine for the global exhibition community) by providing articles related to the Greek exhibition industry.
